14th August Independence Day

An amazing ceremony was organized by the University of Sindh to celebrate 70th independence day on 14 Aug, 2017. General Officer Commandant (GOC) Hyderabad Major General Muhammad Ali graced the occasion as a chief guest. On the occasion, GOC Hyderabad Major General Muhammad Ali said that he was delighted to have come to the University of Sindh and to have interacted with the zealous and patriotic youth studying there. “I am indeed enchanted to find those boys and girls in such swarming numbers, raising full-throated slogans of Pakistan Zindabad”, SU Vice Chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat said that Sindh had an undeniable role in the making of Pakistan as its provincial assembly was the first to vote, opt and resolve in favor of its creation. He said the University of Sindh would gladly discharge the noble national obligation of instilling greater national spirit and patriotic sentiment in the already country-loving youth of Sindh by the help of its able and accomplished faculty, officers and employees.

Establishment of Centre for Indus Valley Integrated Studies at SU

University of Sindh has decided to set up Centre for Indus Valley Integrated Studies (CIVIS) for conserving heritage and conducting research on science, humanities and human resources across province by the support of experts from USA and Germany. The experts said that improving knowledge in the fields like heritage, science, humanities and human resources would be in the interest of future human sustainability through learning about the past phenomena occurring in Greater Indus Valley. This they said while speaking in a meeting chaired by the vice chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat which was attended by all the members of the committee that had been constituted on February 12, 2017 exclusively for the preparation of proposal for the establishment of CIVIS at Sindh University. Briefing the meeting, German scientist Professor Dr. Michael Jansen said that inspired by the extraordinary importance of the cultural capital of the province of Sindh; such as two world heritage sites Moenjodaro and Makli, the idea of a research centre was given, adding that according to the newly-emerged observations, Moenjodaro had proven to be the largest Bronze Age city of the world that merited international attention and concern. “As a result of the findings of the working group, it is deemed essential to establish an international research centre at the University of Sindh Jannshar, that may have the ultra-modern facilities to grow into a centre of global repute” he added. Speaking on the aims and objectives of the proposed centre, the vice chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat said that the CIVIS would be conducting research related to the past, present and future of Sindh and Pakistan in the context of global heritage, science, humanities and HR fields in relation to Greater Indus Valley. He said that the establishment of interdisciplinary research centre at SU would optimize cooperation and better understanding among the people of the region and would help them find solutions to the common complex issues relating to them. Among others, PVC SU Thatta campus Prof. Dr. Serfraz Hussain Solangi, US expert on archaeology Dr. Joseph Schuldenrein, Dr. Akhtar Hussain Moghal, Dr. Imdadullah Siddiqui, Dr. Hamadullah Kakapoto, Muhammad Hanif Leghari and Manik Mustafa Shar were also present in the meeting.
Welcome Aboard Newly Appointed Lecturers

A serene and graceful ceremony was held at Senate Hall of the Vice-Chancellor’s Secretariat University of Sindh on 1st August, 2017 to extend formal welcome to the newly-inducted lecturers of University of Sindh. The ceremony was arranged as a response to the new appointees.

The given ceremony was presided over by VC-SU Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat; whereas, Prof. Dr. Muhammad Saleem Chando, Registrar, University of Sindh and the heads of departments/institutes where the appointments had been made were also present on the occasion.

SU Vice Chancellor Dr. Burfat in his remarks on this eve said that the new entrants should avoid indulging in negative activities that might drain their positive energy, stamina, attention and time. “You are fortunate to have become a part of highly respected university teaching fraternity; your new elevated position requires of you to maintain your caliber and character and makes due demand on you to spend every precious minute productively”. Dr. Burfat stressed that they had made the selection of all lecturers only and only on the basis of merit to the best of their judgment, conscience and experience; in strict observance of the prescribed rules, principles, procedures and standards. The Vice-Chancellor urged upon fresh lecturers to work with diligence, devotion, honesty and integrity to prove to the world that their selection was rightful and justified. Quoting example of one of the new appointees Neelma Bhatti who had grabbed Fulbright scholarship award, he emphasized that their selection was judicious and best. VC Dr. Burfat expressed the hope that all new teachers would lend undivided attention to their career development by focusing on academic and professional excellence accrued through earning higher research qualifications and contribution in their respective fields of studies.

One Day Seminar On Women Protection: Social & Legal Aspects

One-day seminar on “Women Protection: Social & Legal Aspects” organized by the Institute of English Language and Literature, University of Sindh, at Shaik Hayaz Auditorium on 24th August, 2017 in collaboration with Sindh Police. The seminar was presided over by SU Vice Chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat, the seminar was attended by Additional Inspector General of Police Counter-Terrorism Department (CTD) Dr. Sanaullah Abbasi, former Secretary Animesh International Iqbal Ahmed Delho, Senior Analyst Ghulam Nabi Morai, Analyst & Researcher Aqshar Ali Soomro, ASP Police Hyderabad Zahida Parveen and Director SU’s Institute of English Language & Literature (IELL) Prof. Dr. Rafique Ahmed Memon, besides the faculty and a large number of female students of the university.

Speakers on this occasion stressed the importance of protecting female students from harassment and called for creating broader space and fair treatment of women by men in society especially at workplaces including universities. They encouraged female students to move ahead freely with their academic activities without any fear on Sindh University campus, proposing varsity administration to immediately setup ‘anti-harassment cells’ in every department and centers in order to ensure protection of girl students. Vice Chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burfat emphasised the need for changing socio-cultural behaviour and trends in society towards women who he said, were found insecure even within their families for a variety of reasons.

He said education, employment and empowerment were very important for women. “The objectives of organizing this seminar are to assure female students that the entire administration is with them and safe as well as secure environment will be provided to them at every cost,” said the vice chancellor. He announced to setup cells in all 57 departments and centers to address the issue of harassment of women on the proposal given by one of the speakers Aqshar Soomro. These anti-harassment cells would soon come up with a gender policy, he promised, and called for cooperation of the faculty and students in further developing the Alma Mater.
VC-SU Visits Commissioner Hyderabad

Vice Chancellor Prof. Dr. Fatah Muhammad Burfat visited commissioner Hyderabad Division Saeed Ahmed Mangnejo at the Commissioner House on Sunday 20th August 2017 and sought his support and cooperation towards construction of service roads and pedestrian overhead bridge in front of SU on Indus highway to save the lives of students in future. Dr. Burfat briefed Commissioner Hyderabad on the unfortunate incidents in which SU bore the irreparable loss of a number of its students. He told that the fatal accidents had taken place at the Indus highway and super highway, these all happened because of absence of service roads and pedestrian overhead bridges at its entry-exit points. "One other problem is that the varsity is facing the challenge of its ill-located CNG and fuel stations. These both sit at the very face of the Indus highway, making it virtually impossible for all incoming and outgoing vehicles to seek refills without the potential risk of meeting an accident. He also shared with the commissioner the nascent long standing issue of illegal encroachments of the varsity lands at diverse locations by some powerful individuals and some land mafia groups, complaining as to how entire millions worth land strips at the unlawful occupation. "I have joined SU with a vision and commitment; I have fallen in love with this varsity. It has now become my most passionate pursuit- I do not mind working Sundays", he said and added that all he wanted was to implement one-point agenda, which was to elevate the university in all terms. Commissioner Hyderabad Saeed Ahmed Mangnejo on the occasion assured the vice chancellor his fullest support and cooperation to redress the indicated issues and said that the University of Sindh was his mother institution. It is our spiritual and academic mother. If something wrong happens to my mother I will not sit idle. Hence I assure that I will extend my all-out support in clearing varsity lands from encroachers, constructing service roads and pedestrian overhead bridges and re-locating its CNG and fuel station at more appropriate point. Commissioner Mangnejo eulogized Dr. Burfat's concerted efforts towards betterment of quality of education and his all-time concern for the safety and security of university students, faculty, officers, employees, families and Janshoro community.

70 Years of Friendship Between Pakistan-UK Celebrated

The British Council and the University of Sindh jointly hosted photography exhibition at SU’s Institute of Art & Design to celebrate 70 years of friendship between Pakistan and the United Kingdom.

The acting British Deputy High Commissioner in Karachi Steve Crossman, the British Council director for Sindh & Baluchistan Christopher Hunt, the speaker provincial Assembly of Sindh Agha Siraj Durrani and the vice chancellor University of Sindh Prof. Dr. Fatah Muhammad Burfat jointly inaugurated the exhibition. Addressing the inaugural ceremony, the acting British Deputy High Commissioner in Karachi Steve Crossman said that 2017 was a historic year as both the countries celebrated 70 years of friendship adding that they were delighted to bring their photography exhibition to Jamshoro after hosting the same in London, Lahore and Peshawar. The Director of the British Council for Sindh & Baluchistan Christopher Hunt said the British Council first started its work in Karachi in 1947 and it had been working in Pakistan ever since. British Council Pakistan will continue to create opportunities for the people of the two countries to learn from each other’s strengths and experience whilst supporting people in Pakistan share their expertise with the United Kingdom, he said. Addressing the seminar and talking to media, Speaker of Provincial Assembly of Sindh Agha Siraj Durrani said that the British government had started a number of development projects in Sindh and “We expect more from the British government for the development and progress of the province”, he said and added that he was personally of the opinion that the dream of a prosperous Sindh could not come true unless the quality education was not being imparted.

He said Sindh University got a permanent vice chancellor after long time and expressed hope that being diligent and hardworking, Dr. Burfat would lead the varsity to the new avenues of success. “If the university administration sends any proposal for the growth of Sindh Varsity, the Sindh Assembly would be happy to ensure legislation accordingly”, he said. SU vice chancellor Prof. Dr. fateh Muhammad Burfat said that Sindh and the UK were enjoying the friendship of 175 years adding that the first school in Karachi was established in 1835 with the help of the British government.

Terming the quality education panacea of every evil including terrorism and extremism, he said the British council must come forward to supporting Sindh University as a vast majority of students studying on the campus belonged to the downtrodden families who could not afford the exorbitant cost of higher education in and outside the country.
One day seminar on “Hepatitis Awareness” was organized by the office of the Dean Faculty of Natural Sciences of the varsity in collaboration with Sindh Skills Development Program Bilqees Razia Trust, Sindh Hepatitis Control Program, Save Human Foundation and Petarian Association on September 28, 2017, at Shaikh Ayaz Auditorium, Arts Faculty Building. Addressing the seminar, SU vice chancellor Prof. Dr. Fateh Muhammad Burbat said hepatitis B virus was a common problem for the society and its treatment was continuously changing and improving. “The number of liver patients is increasing in our society because of lack of knowledge about it”, he added that being a social scientist he taught in many medical universities particularly in Agha Khan University and knew very well about these common diseases. Dr. Bekharam from Liaquat Medical University of Health Sciences Jamshoro said that they were partnering anti-hepatitis initiatives with the University of Sindh to disseminate awareness among millions of people of Sindh through the varsity’s faculty and students. “The University of Sind has its intake from almost all parts of the province and Pakistan; hence, we understand its stakeholders are the right people to reach to proliferate awareness of hepatitis threat and precautionary measures that need to be adopted”, he said. Dr. Naeem Leghari from Bilqees Razia Trust (BRT) oriented the audience with the objectives and achievements of their trust and informed that they were focusing on Dadu as their operational hub where the number of hepatitis positive patients was higher compared to other districts of Sindh.

Among others, Dean Faculty of Natural Sciences Prof. Dr. Akhtar Hussain Mughal, PVC Laar Campus Badin Prof. Dr. Muhammad Siddique Kalhoro, PVC SU Neushahrofzer Campus Muhammad Nawaz Narejo, PVC Mirpurkhas Campus Dr. Ghulam Sarwar Gachal, President Sind University Teachers Association (SUTA) Dr. Azhar Ali Shah were also present on the occasion.
