

Poster exhibition at SU enthral visitors

A huge poster exhibition was organized by the Institute of Microbiology, University of Sindh Jamshoro, featuring 65 different projects on the three leading subjects of haematology, parasitology and recombinant DNA technology, which has greatly enthralled and attracted the visitors and students as these projects were looking professional.

The exhibition was arranged by the efforts and interest of active teachers of the Institute of Microbiology Dr. Bushra Patoli and Dr. Atif Patoli who are engaged in constant endeavors to do something new for their students and deliver in a unique way.

On the occasion, 3 judges including Director Institute of Microbiology Prof. Dr. Sarfraz Ali Tanio, Director Institute of Biotechnology & Genetic Engineering Prof. Dr. Muhammad Rafique and Director Institute of Biochemistry Prof. Dr. Naseem Aslam Channa selected 3 best posters for the prize and the creators of those posters were awarded at the ceremony.

The students who grabbed the first, second and third positions were given certificates of appreciation and shields.

Teachers of Institute of Microbiology Dr. Shagufta Jabeen, Dr. Abdul Nabi Mirjat, Dr. Faryal Kushik and many others were also present at the ceremony.

Speaking on the occasion, the event organizer Dr. Bushra Patoli said that the purpose of holding the poster exhibition was to give an opportunity to the students to showcase their talents.

She said that subjects like hematology, parasitology and recombinant DNA technology were related to the plants, animals and humans, therefore, she said such an exhibition had been organized to develop students' interest.

Dr. Bushra Patoli further said that a grand poster exhibition would be organized soon and students from different fields of natural science would be given an opportunity to participate in it so that they could present their projects.

Diagnosis of breast cancer at an early stage termed effective step in reducing morbidity and mortality

Sindh University's Bureau of Students, Tutorial Guidance/ Counseling Services & Co-Curricular Activities (STAGS) organized an awareness walk regarding breast cancer here on Thursday.

Led by the Director Bureau of STAGS Professor Dr. Ghazala Panhwar, Deputy Director Dr. Mubarak Ali Lashari, Director Nimra Cancer Hospital Dr. Syed Shahid Iqbal, Consultant Oncology Nimra Cancer Hospital Dr. Naseema Munir and Radiation Oncologist Dr. Amina Sulaiman, the rally was taken out from Zero Point to Arts Faculty Building by the Bureau of STAGS in collaboration with Nimra Cancer Hospital Jamshoro in a bid to raise awareness about breast cancer, wherein a number of teachers and male as well female students participated.

Students who participated in the walk were carrying banners and placards in their hands stressing on the youth to take precautionary measures to protect them from the lethal breast cancer.

After reaching the Arts Faculty Building, the participants rushed to the Department of International Relations to participate in a wakefulness seminar organized in its Nelson Mandela Hall.

Addressing the seminar, Director Nimra Cancer Hospital Dr. Syed Shahid Iqbal said that the awareness campaign against breast cancer should be made public at the national level. Pamphlets and information materials should be distributed so that both male and female could get proper knowledge about the fatal disease.

He said that due to ignorance about the prevalence of breast cancer in men, the diagnosis of the disease was delayed and the ailment strengthened its hold in the human body and led it to fatality.

He said that because of lack of awareness in Pakistan, 89% of patients were diagnosed after and 59% of the patients were diagnosed before the condition worsened.

Consultant oncologist at Nimra Cancer Hospital Jamshoro Dr Naseema Munir said that breast cancer was a curable disease and if it was diagnosed in time, there was an effective treatment available for it.

She said that Nimra Cancer Hospital Jamshoro had facilities for initial screening of patients, disease diagnosis, biopsy, ultrasound and mammography, adding that the expenses incurred on the said tests were affordable even for a common man.

She said that breast cancer was increasing both in women as well as in men; consequently, she said men should also consult a physician immediately if they felt any abnormal movement in the body.

She said that cancer was usually a hereditary disease, if someone in one's family suffered from the disease, they should undergo related tests at different times in order to detect the disease if it took place, adding that detection of breast cancer in time was the only effective weapon against it.

Oncologist Radiation Nimra Hospital Dr. Amna Suleman said that every year 90 thousand women were diagnosed with breast cancer and the death rate from the disease was high only because the illness was not detected in time.

She said that there was an urgent need to break cultural and traditional barriers in the prevention and treatment of breast cancer.

Speaking on the occasion, Director Bureau of STAGS Dr. Ghazala Panhwar said that there was concern over further spread of breast cancer in the region including Pakistan due to a plethora of reasons.

She said that modern demographic trends indicated that the number of cancer patients will increase further.

She said that diagnosis of breast cancer at an early stage was always significantly effective in reducing both morbidity and mortality.

Dr. Mubarak Ali Lashari said that mammographic screening was associated with different social, cultural and economic groups, but women in Pakistan approached the doctor in the last stage of cancer due to many social, economic and cultural boundaries.

He said that patient's age, employment status, lack of awareness, fear of surgery and belief in traditional and spiritual treatment were the root causes and dangerous trends.

Female students must partake in sports activities in a bid to remain hale and hearty, says SU Vice-Chancellor Dr Kalhoro f indh University Vice-Chancellor Professor (Meritorious) Dr Muhammad Siddique Kalhoro has said that sports activities are being promoted in Sindh University; however especial attention has been paid to provide the female students with different gaming facilities at Marvi Girls Hostel in a bid to keep them hale and hearty.

p e said if the minds of the girl students would be unsullied and fresh, then they could read better and stay away from negative activities adding that Miss Mukhtiar Bhatti played a momentous role as Director Sports (Girls) and she always remained on the go and gave much love to the girls like daughters.

whis he said while addressing the prize distribution ceremony organized by the Directorate of Sports (Girls) at Madar Millat Fatima Anah Girls Gymnasium, University of Sindh Jamshoro.

The Vice-Chancellor further said that the basketball, volleyball and table tennis facilities had been provided at Marvi Girls Hostel so that the hostel students might participate in sports whenever they had time adding that playing the different games will keep them physically and mentally strong, fit and healthy.

He went on saying that if the human mind was fresh then; one could easily read, write and understand the books genuinely while referring to them; therefore he urged the students, especially girls, to work hard with full dedication, devotion and commitment in order to grab positions in their concerned disciplines.

He further said that the female faculty members should also come to the gymnasium and participate in basketball, volleyball, table tennis and other games as the sports were essential for fitness and quality of life.

“Physical Education and Library Science are two job-oriented disciplines as there is great demand of these degrees in the national employment market, but it is surprising that nowadays youths choose different other departments ignoring these two”, he lamented and added that youngsters with degrees in physical education and library sciences were highly required in schools and colleges while their initial appointment could be in grade 17.

Dr. Kalhoro said that correspondence was going on with the officials of Pakistan Cricket Board for repairing the PCB ground situated at the University of Sindh; however, a proposal would be submitted to the Sindh government for construction of a complex around the ground in order to make it at par with national stadiums of Pakistan.

He said that after the construction of the pavilion at PCB Cricket Ground, Pakistan Super League (PSL) matches could be played on it, illustrating that there was no law and order issue in the premises of SU.

The Vice-Chancellor said that female students were varsity's responsibility because their parents trusted SU and admitted them on the campus adding that the students should also trust the university administration and report immediately to it in case of any untoward situation.

He said that some elements were always active in creating a bad impression about the University of Sindh but the female students should reject such impressions through their posts on social media and tell the people of Sindh as to how much better environment had been provided to them on the campus and in the hostels.

He said that the services rendered by Miss Mukhtiar Bhatti in all capacities especially as Director of Sports (Girls) were excellent, commendable and would always be remembered.

At the ceremony, SU Vice-Chancellor Dr. Muhammad Siddique Kalhoro distributed shields and prizes among the students who secured positions in inter-departmental competitions during 2018-19. On the occasion, the Vice Chairman Sports Prof. Dr. Akram Ansari, Director Sports (Girls) Miss Mukhtiar Bhatti, Director Sports (Boys) Ajaved Ahmed Bhatti, Prof. Dr. Khalil-ur-Rehman Khambati, Iqbal Lemon, Dr. Zareen Abbasi, Prof. Dr. Soniha Aslam, Prof. Dr. Wazir Ali Baloch, Prof. Dr. Khalida Faryal Almani, Prof. Dr. Arfana Mallah, Prof. Dr. Ghazala Panhwar, Prof. Dr. Nek Muhammad Shaikh, Prof. Dr. Ashique Jhatial, Jan-e-Alam Solangi, Dr. Muhammad Younis Bughari, Syed Sajjad Hussain Shah, Manzoor Ali Panhwar, Tasleem Mirza, Ghulam Nabi Kaka, Abdul Majeed Panhwar, Abdul Hameed Laheesar and others were also present.

Earlier in her welcome address, Miss Mukhtiar Bhatti said that she was retiring on March 8 from the university service adding that she did as much as she could for the University of Sindh.

He said that due to COVID-19 in 2020 and 2021, shields and cash prizes could not be handed over to the children who got positions in inter-departmental sports competitions held in the year 2018-19.

"They are being handed over the same today at this memorial ceremony", she said. At the juncture, the students stood up to show their respect for her and applauded her.

In the end, the Vice-Chancellor inaugurated the newly donated water cooler installed at the entrance of the gymnasium and prayed for the late parents of Miss Mukhtiar Bhatti.
